Blair not budging on disclosure

Project Traveller. Police chief says he's following legal advice by keeping mum on mayor's alleged links to gang probe

Toronto police Chief Bill Blair says he sought legal advice about what he could disclose about a gang raid and any connection to Mayor Rob Ford and he's not veering from it.

On Thursday, the chief cited that legal advice when he again refused to answer questions about any Ford involvement in the investigation, or whether any videos have been recovered as part of a sweep targeting a guns-and-drugs trafficking operation — a yearlong effort dubbed Project Traveller.

Legal experts have told Torstar News Service that the chief could discuss the mayor's involvement without breaking the law. He could also disclose, even release, a video apparently showing Ford smoking crack cocaine, if police had obtained it.

"I have no idea where you're getting your legal advice, but I know where I'm getting mine and I've consulted with the Ministry of the Attorney General — people who actually know the law with respect to the disclosure of that information," Blair told reporters.

"We've now put all of our evidence before the courts. Any inquiries now about that evidence should rightfully be directed to the Crown attorney."

He refused to comment on whether he could exonerate the mayor of any involvement, even if Ford gave him permission to do so. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Better cab service

Toronto moving on taxi changes

The City of Toronto wants more cabs to be driven by their owners because owner-operators will provide better service to the travelling public, says Coun. Denzil Minnan-Wong. And the city wants many more cabs to be wheelchair-accessible.

Proposals to gradually make it happen are outlined in a report that will be aired at public meetings next month to gain feedback from taxi industry players, Minnan-Wong said Thursday. Final recommendations are expected in September.

Stintz to make run for mayor?

Karen Stintz
TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

As much as she might deny it, Karen Stintz is already off and running hard to unseat Rob Ford and become Toronto's next mayor. Although the election isn't until October 2014, the TTC chair has clearly made up her mind to enter the race against Ford and Olivia Chow, the NDP MP who leads in early polls and is fully expected to join the campaign.

In the past few weeks, Stintz has begun to build her campaign team, enlisted a new speech coach, recruited key policy advisers and kick-started a concerted drive to meet with senior local leaders in business, the media and community groups. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Brown splashdown so not heaven-scent

Transport Canada investigates. What looks and smells like No. 2 splattered a Mississauga backyard

It looks like poop. It certainly smells like poop.

But nobody knows for sure yet if what fell from the sky and splattered all over a Mississauga family's backyard is really human waste.

Emma Gilfillan-Giannakos was sitting under her covered patio, while her children played in an outdoor fort at about 5 p.m. Wednesday when she heard a loud splash.

"I had no idea what it was. I thought maybe a rainstorm, but it just hit and then it was gone," she said.

When Gilfillan-Giannakos looked up, she saw hundreds of brown splotches covering her pool tarp, as well as part of her concrete patio, garden and roof. Small, hard pellets were floating in the pool where it was uncovered.

The family lives about 20 kilometres from Pearson International Airport. Aircraft can be seen overhead at all hours.

Transport Canada is investigating, but has not determined the source of the material or whether it is in fact frozen airplane lavatory waste, also known as "blue ice," said spokesperson Maryse Durette.

If the substance is found to be blue ice, Transport Canada will try to identify the air carrier responsible and take "enforcement action" if it doesn't fix the problem, she said.

But Gilfillan-Giannakos is furious to be left with a bill for more than $5,000, after draining her pool, replacing the liner and pressure-washing her patio. Her insurance company has said it will not cover the costs. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

Last week, I ventured out to sample the TTC's Blue Night Network – the late-night bus and streetcar service that criss-crosses the city after the subway closes each night. Every month, I shadow a different job role to see life through a staff member's eyes.

Overnight services began before the TTC was even officially formed in 1921. During the Second World War, the service was expanded to provide additional transit options for workers travelling to and from shifts at 24-hour factories that were part of the war effort.

The overnight network remained largely unchanged between the 1950s and the 1980s, but a major review in 1987 saw it expanded and rebranded as the Blue Night Network.

A further expansion was delivered in 2005, with new overnight services on routes, such as Steeles East, Lawrence East, Lawrence West and Sheppard East. Today, eight streetcars and approximately 80 buses are used to operate the 24 routes (22 bus/two streetcar) that make up the Blue Night Network.

So basically we're running a 30-minute service with more frequent service on the key subway replacement routes – 320 Yonge and 300 Bloor-Danforth – as well as all-night service to Pearson International Airport.

In fact, service has been steadily added in the last few years to the very busiest overnight routes, such as 320 Yonge and 300 Bloor-Danforth. These now run every few minutes.

It was good to spend time with our dedicated, professional night staff, and to be able to get feedback from customers about what they thought of the service. The Request Stop Program, for example, where customers can be dropped at any location along a bus route – where safe to do so – was particularly appreciated.

Many large American cities offer very little transit service outside peak hours, but the TTC proudly provides service 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

There is still plenty more to do to transform the TTC, but my experience last week suggests we are building on some very good foundations.

KINGSTON ROAD TRACK WORK CONTINUES

On Monday, June 24, the TTC and City of Toronto will begin the next phase of track and infrastructure replacement on Kingston Road, limiting traffic to one eastbound lane only from Victoria Park Ave. to Queen St. Pedestrian access will be maintained at all times. The nature of the work involves new fire hydrant installation, TTC track reconstruction, sidewalk construction and roadway reconstruction.

502 Downtowner and 503 Kingston Road streetcars will continue to turn back at Woodbine loop at Queen Street East and Kingston Road. The 22A Coxwell bus route will be extended to operate eastbound on Kingston Road in place of streetcars and divert westbound via Blantyre Ave. and Queen St.

Customers can transfer between buses and streetcars (501, 502 and 503) at Queen Street East and Kingston Road, or at Queen Street East and Coxwell Avenue, or remain on the 22A Coxwell service to Coxwell subway station. Alternate routes also include the 12 Kingston Road bus to Victoria Park Station, the 64 Main bus to Main Street Station and the 92 Woodbine bus to Woodbine Station.

PETA wants to get tigers banned from Shrine Circus

'Deplorable records'. Manager says circus, with shows in Rexdale this weekend, has never been cited for poor treatment in Ontario

People For the Ethical Treatment of Animals want the Shrine Circus to drop its tiger act before it opens under the big top in Rexdale this weekend.

In a letter written to the Woodbine Centre, where the circus will perform at least once a day until Canada Day, PETA lawyer Carney Anne Chester asked the centre to refuse to host the circus unless the tiger act is cancelled.

The tigers are owned and trained by a subcontractor, Hawthorn Corp., which she claimed has a 20-year history of animal abuse.

"Hawthorn has one of the most deplorable records in the circus history," she said.

Quoted

"They're great trainers. We have no issues with them. They've always been very professional when they've worked with our shows."
Larry Solheim, GM at TZ Productions

The company, which operates exotic animal acts in circuses across the continent, has been cited more than 100 times for violations of animal welfare law in the U.S., had its licence revoked twice and been ordered to pay $272,000 in civil penalties, Chester said by telephone from California.

Larry Solheim, general manager at TZ Productions, which puts on the Shrine Circus tour across Ontario this summer, says that while Hawthorn may have been cited in the U.S., the specific act playing in Toronto this summer has never been accused of any wrongdoing.

Chester admitted she was unaware of any allegations against Hawthorn in Canada.

Floods ravage southern Alberta

Mass exodus. Tens of thousands could be evacuated as rescue teams search for stranded victims

Torrential rains and widespread flooding throughout southern Alberta on Thursday washed out roads and bridges, sent residents scurrying for safety, and delivered up surreal scenes of cars, couches and refrigerators just floating away.

Officials with the City of Calgary said as many as 100,000 people in low-lying neighbourhoods could be forced from their homes due to heavy flooding, an evacuation that would take place in stages over the next few days.

Bruce Burrell, director of the Calgary Emergency Management Agency, said water levels on the Bow River aren't expected to subside until Saturday afternoon.

"Depending on the extent of flooding we experience overnight, there may be areas of the city where people are not going to be able to get into until the weekend," he told a news conference.

Burrell said they suggested that workers in downtown Calgary, which borders on the river, leave work early Thursday if they live in threatened areas, so they could prepare to evacuate.

Other workers were advised to consider staying late so as to lighten the rush-hour load on roads that might be needed for evacuations.

Two women killed in fireworks plant blast

A massive explosion at a fireworks plant killed two women as it rattled homes and sent up a cloud of smoke that could be seen for kilometres outside Montreal.

The subsequent fire then prompted a shutdown of the adjacent highway, causing a huge traffic jam, and an evacuation of dozens of homes, businesses, a campground, and a school.

Provincial police said the bodies of two female employees were found in the wreckage.

The initial explosion at B.E.M. Fireworks occurred just before 9 a.m. Thursday and completely destroyed the building, which was reduced to charred scraps.

A series of sparkly blasts popped above the rest of the thick, dark smoke emanating from the blast site, located near Valleyfield, Que., roughly 60 kilometres southwest of Montreal. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Firefighters apologize for pulling sexist prank

'Stupid lack of judgment.' Two men disciplined after sending package with tampons and recipes to fire department with new female hires

KATE WEBB
Metro in Vancouver

Two Vancouver firefighters have been reprimanded for sending a package containing a box of tampons and recipes from women's magazines to the Port Coquitlam fire department after it hired its first female members in more than a decade.

The package was sent a few weeks ago and addressed to a male friend of the senders who works in the PoCo department, but was intercepted before it got to him.

Vancouver Fire Chief John McKearney said the sexist prank was completely unacceptable, and the pair have both had letters of discipline put in their files.

"When it was brought to my attention, I did an investigation, the two members came forward and they went through a disciplinary hearing before a panel of chief officers, and they were subsequently disciplined," McKearney said Thursday.

"It was a stupid, ignorant prank, but they took full responsibility. Both members are young members in our organization. ... They didn't even stop to think how this would affect members in both organizations and our citizens and especially our women firefighters."

He added that both culprits are "terrific individuals" and said the act was "totally out of character" for them.

Gord Ditchburn, president of the union that represents Vancouver firefighters, agreed with McKearney and said the Port Coquitlam fire department has accepted an apology from those responsible.

"These two individuals have been model employees over the years and it was an incredibly stupid lack of judgment, and they regret this," he said. "We do a tremendous amount of work to make sure that our workplace is very respectful."

WHO. One-third of women worldwide suffer from domestic violence

About a third of women worldwide have been physically or sexually assaulted by a former or current partner, according to the first major review of violence against women.

In a series of papers released Thursday by the World Health Organization and others, experts estimated nearly 40 per cent of women killed worldwide were slain by an intimate partner. Being assaulted by a partner was the most common kind of violence experienced by women.

WHO defined physical violence as being slapped, pushed, punched, choked or attacked with a weapon. Sexual violence was defined as being physically forced to have sex, having sex because you were afraid of what your partner might do and being compelled to do something sexual that was humiliating or degrading.

Alleged abuse

23 children taken from Mennonite community

Almost two dozen children have been seized from a devout southern Manitoba Mennonite community amid charges that youngsters were assaulted with cattle prods, whips and leather straps.

Documents from Manitoba Family Services show the youngest of 23 children taken from their homes is nine months old; the oldest is 15. The documents don't detail the alleged abuse.

Two adults from the tiny orthodox community were charged in March with various counts of assault and assault with a weapon on several boys and girls between July 2011 and January of this year. This week, two more adults appeared in court to face similar charges involving 12 alleged victims.

RCMP are still investigating and say more charges could be laid.

Movies. New Cineplex ticket lets theatre-goers download film later on Going to see World War Z this weekend? Cineplex will soon start selling the SuperTicket, a hybrid of both movie admission and a digital download of the same film.

JAAP BUITENDIJK/PARAMOUNT PICTURES

Canadians who would like to own the films they've just seen at the theatre will soon have a chance to double-up at the box office, as part of an agreement between Cineplex Inc. and several major Hollywood studios.

The country's largest theatre chain is about to launch SuperTicket, a hybrid of both a movie admission and digital download of the same film.

When movie-watchers buy their Cineplex ticket either online or at the box office, they'll also have the option to pre-order a digital copy of the same film. The online version will become available to them around the time it's headed to DVD.

The digital copies will be in UltraViolet, which allows sharing of the digital downloads on multiple devices such as desktop, laptop and tablet computers or smartphones.

Cineplex says it's a first for the movie industry, which has been looking for new ways to boost sales of home entertainment, as the popularity of physical media begins to fade.

HIGH FIVES FOR HAND WASHERS

Welcome to The Metro List, the nation's foremost source for the week's best stories. Not the top ones — the best ones. Trust me.

1 Tony Soprano fades to black. The great James Gandolfini, who revolutionized television as Tony Soprano, everybody's favourite Mafioso, dies Wednesday of a massive heart attack at 51. Now we'll never know what happened after the infamous last episode, as a sequel without the greatest character since King Lear is unthinkable.

2 Bob Rae fades to grey. The man who never quite succeeds, whether he's the premier of Ontario or the interim leader of the federal Liberals, decides to call it a day and retires from Parliament to not quite succeed … at something else.

THE METRO LIST

3 Now you tell us. The head of Exodus International, an "ex-gay ministry" charged with the holy mission of curing homosexuals, abruptly shuts down his 200 ministries with an apology to gays: "You have never been my enemy," says president Alan Chambers. "I am very sorry that I have been yours." Oh, and those "on-going same-sex attractions"? He now accepts them as part of his life "that will likely always be there."

4 Just when we lose one disease, another one pops up. The American Medical Association declares obesity a disease. It's obviously contagious: more than one-third of Americans are now obese. Here's the good news. There's a sure-fire cure, but it doesn't come with fries.

5 Another disease? This one is called "poverty." According to one study, 50 per cent of Aboriginal children live below the poverty line. According to another study, there are 30,000 people across Canada who will spend the night homeless or in a homeless shelter. According to the first study it will cost $7.5 billion a year to bring all children up to the poverty line. According to the second, homelessness has a $7-billion-a-year price tag. Are you thinking what I'm thinking? Eliminate homelessness and child poverty disappears.

6 A different kind of poverty. The Donald turns up in Vancouver and announces the development of the Trump Vancouver, a $500-million, 63-storey luxury hotel, condo development and spa, the second Trump spire in Canada, just a polite smidge shorter than the one in Toronto. Champagne was served.

7 We knew it. Another day, another study. Turns out 15 per cent of men don't wash their hands after going to the bathroom. Of those who do, only half use soap. That means your chances of shaking hands with some guy who didn't wash after relieving himself are perilously high. Of course, women are infinitely more civilized: only five per cent don't wash up and of those who do, 78 per cent use soap. Men are potting soil. Men are plaque.

8 Bieberwatch. Speaking of potting soil, Justin Bieber runs over a photographer while leaving a nightclub in his white Ferrari. Neither the car nor the paparazzo were damaged. Bieber was already damaged goods.

The grass is always greener …

NASA/NOAA

NASA shows how lush our Earth is

Scientists have collected a year's worth of satellite observations to create a series of images showing the entire world's vegetation.

NASA spent 12 months gathering data from its Suomi National Polar-orbiting Partnership satellite to reveal the stark contrasts between lush, green and dry, arid regions of Earth.

NASA's Suomi NPP measures plant growth, vegetation cover and biomass production from satellite information. It is calculated from the visible and near-infrared light reflected by vegetation. The data is also used to measure cloud and aerosol properties, ocean colour, sea and land surface temperature, ice motion, fires, and the planet's albedo (reflected sunlight). METRO

"Although 75 per cent of the planet is a relatively unchanging ocean of blue, the remaining 25 per cent of Earth's surface is a dynamic green," says NASA. The space agency's data can also be for environmental monitoring, weather prediction models and drought forecasts. NASA/NOAA

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Zombie film needs life

World War Z.
Brad-Pitt-helmed apocalyptic thriller a victim of dim lighting and lacklustre action

Richard: Mark, I like zombie movies. I also like Brad Pitt, so I'm disappointed that World War Z feels a bit dead on its feet. It has several thrilling scenes — the zombie hordes crawling over one another to scale a giant wall is really cool — but it doesn't even have the oomph of an episode of The Walking Dead. I know zombie apocalypses happen in dimly lit places, but the low light in the first hour of the movie makes it almost impossible to see Brad laying a whooping on the undead, which is the whole reason you buy a ticket to a movie like this.

Mark: Richard, low light means less makeup for the aging Mr. Pitt. But I liked this movie, and I'm not a fan of zombie flicks. The movie reminded me of Contagion but with corporeal viruses that you could actually see. The gore is tasteful, which not everybody will like, but it meant I could concentrate on the story and Pitt's haircut. But you're right about the low light. At times I thought I was watching a grad thesis from the Canadian Film Centre.

RC: The "aging" Mr. Pitt still looks better than I do on my best day, low light or not. My problem with it had more to do with not be able to see what was going on. This is a 3D action movie that actively tries to not show you all three dimensions of a good chunk of the action. It builds some atmosphere, but anyone with any braaaaains would have turned up the lights. On the other hand an exciting scene on an airplane really shows what a horror it is to fly in economy class.

MB: Ha! That was one of the good scenes, as was the entire Israel sequence, which I think was making a sly point about the limitations of a fortress-state. The long scene in the research facility felt like an exercise in taut, old-fashioned moviemaking, and the opening chase on the highway was harrowing and involving. But let's talk about the real stars of the picture: the zombies. They moved fast, which I liked, and often as a mass, frighteningly, by the thousands, creating an indelible image of a foe that may not just be zombies, but communists.

RC: It's just that the movie doesn't offer up any really great zombie one-on-one head splitting action à la The Walking Dead or great characters. One or the other would have breathed some life into this movie.

MB: Outside of Pitt, none of the characters really stick out, with one exception: David Morse's cameo as a turncoat CIA agent. Scarier than the zombies.

Two White House flicks, one summer

White House Down. Independence Day director didn't get a chance to decimate America's house of power this time

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Maybe it's because he's best known for blowing up the White House in Independence Day, but when director Roland Emmerich turned to the West Wing for help in making White House Down — his new film about the White House overrun by terrorists — he got the cold shoulder.

"We applied for shooting permits and were denied," Emmerich says with a laugh. "I don't know why, it's strange."

If the plot sounds familiar, it may be because there has already been one movie about terrorists taking over the White House this year. Given the success Olympus Has Fallen has already enjoyed, is Emmerich worried about comparisons?

"No, not really worried. I mean, maybe a little bit because naturally I would've been much happier being the first out, but also I didn't want them to rush it," he says. "I'm not terribly concerned. Hopefully it will work. We'll see June 28 if this will go over nicely."

The fact that there are two White House takeover movies so close to each other is a total coincidence, Emmerich insists. "I had a White House project with Sony for 10, 15 years, and it never came together for several reasons. And so when they bought this spec script by Jamie Vanderbilt, they immediately thought of me and sent it to me the same day they bought it," he says, explaining that work started very quickly on his new project. "And then all of a sudden people said, 'There's another movie,' and I said, 'Really?' And then I was so deep into it I couldn't really get out of it. And I also didn't want to."

But what is a coincidence, according to Emmerich, is the fact that movies with the president as a hero weren't as popular while Bush was in the White House as they are now or they were under Clinton.

"It's not jingoistic when somebody like (Clinton or Obama) is in the White House to do a White House movie," he says. "And also these are smart people and you can make them smart characters, which naturally was a little bit difficult under Bush."

No superheroes for Emmerich

A quick glance at Roland Emmerich's filmography turns up an interesting fact: Just about everything he's done has been an original film — not based on other source material or an existing franchise. It makes him something of an anomaly, of which he's well aware. "It's very hard to get original movies done these days," he says. "People tend to just like franchises. I don't know what it is — and all over the world. It's not just in America." But don't expect him to change his ways anytime soon: "I have, for example, a hard time making a movie about a comic book hero because I didn't grow up with comics. For me they kind of inevitably feel silly," he says.

Roland Emmerich, director of White House Down and Independence Day, says the West Wing gave him the cold shoulder this time around. HANDOUT

Crime/Drama

The Bling Ring

Director. Sofia Coppola

Stars. Emma Watson, Israel Broussard

There's nothing quite like a Sofia Coppola directed flick. Her latest, the based-on-fact The Bling Ring is ripe with her bright, breezy, sensual style, charting as it does the days and nights in the lives of a gaggle of spoiled, empty rich kids obsessed enough by celebrity that they stalk and then rob the homes of the glitterati. Gently riffing on just how dour our social-network-damaged, empty-calorie-obsessed society has become, the movie almost plays like a horror film, albeit one laced with pummelling electro-pop music. A work of serious pop art.

Documentary

BB King: The Life of Riley

Director. Jon Brewer

Stars. BB King, Morgan Freeman

This extensive documentary about BB King shows that the 87-year-old may be the last living true blues legend. Extending back to the singer/guitarist's early life, Life of Riley explores King fending for himself as a poor teenager until he ultimately gains prominence (with help from artists like Eric Clapton) as a virtuoso. The film is heavy with interviews (and a bit light on music) but every tale is enlightening while King himself makes a perpetually charming subject.

STEVE GOW

Animated

Monsters University

Director. Dan Scanlon

Stars. Billy Crystal, John Goodman

With films like Wall-E and Ratatouille, Pixar became as known for developing thoughtful, streamlined family fare as it did for animation advancements, but Monsters University shows these pioneers could be losing their sharpness. A prequel to 2001's Monsters, Inc., the standard storyline follows unassuming eyeball Mike Wachowski as he struggles to succeed in the schooling of scaring kiddies. Sure, it's fun and froth for the preteen set but the film's simplified formula simply falls flat against Pixar's best work. STEVE GOW

Documentary

The Sheepdogs Have At It

Director. John Barnard

Stars. The Sheepdogs

●●○○○

The Sheepdogs' triumph in Rolling Stone magazine's 2011 cover contest was a sight to see, but as this documentary about the Saskatoon rockers emphasizes, it's what you do with that publicity that really counts. Chronicling the recording of their major label debut, Have At It follows the band into the studio and on tour, delivering a pretty standard rock doc in the process. But the band's ascent is meat-and-potatoes rock band territory; save the cover win, there's nothing extraordinary about their story. IAN GORMELY

Drama

Hannah Arendt

Director. Margarethe von Trotta

Stars. Barbara Sukowa, Janet McTeer

Barbara Sukowa is outstanding as the German-American political theorist, Hannah Arendt. Unfortunately, the rest of the film does not live up to her performance. Margarethe von Trotta's latest follows Arendt as she reports on the 1961 trial of the Nazi war criminal Adolf Eichmann for The New Yorker and develops her much criticized theory, The Banality of Evil. Somehow a film with several scenes of Arendt simply thinking still manages to feel rushed and ultimately fails to provide enough insight into a fascinating subject.

REGAN REID

Drama

Fill the Void

Director. Rama Burshtein

Stars. Hadas Yaron, Yiftach Klein, Irit Sheleg

Burshtein's award winning film set in Tel Aviv's ultra-Orthodox Hasidic community concerns an 18-year-old pressured to marry her late sister's husband. A perfect storm of tradition, law and the Rabbi's wishes conspires to rip away any hope of a self-determined life. Although Shira appears to have a choice in the matter she is obliged to abide by the family's requirements. The performances are subtle and powerful, underscoring that doubt and pain that lie beneath submissive exteriors.

ANNE BRODIE

Documentary

Which Way is the Front Line From Here?

Director. Sebastian Junger

Stars. Tim Hetherington

Sebastian Junger's moving tribute to his friend and collaborator, Tim Hetherington, explores the photographer's life and work — and the many unexpected truths about war that his images revealed to the public. Through interviews with colleagues, friends and family; through his impressive body of work; and in his own words, Which Way is the Front Line From Here fondly tells the story of a man who saw the people behind the warfare and wanted only to better understand them.

REGAN REID

Comedy/Drama

Margarita

Director. Dominique Cardona, Laurie Colbert

Stars. Nicola Correia Damude, Patrick McKenna

●●○○○

After firing their live-in Mexican nanny to save a few bucks, cash-strapped yuppies Gail and Ben realize their dysfunctional family can't live without her. A muddled blend of quirky comedy and relationship angst, Margarita is a coming of age tale that dances around immigration and LGBT issues, touches on modern day class struggle, and tries to document the implosion of a middle class family, all at the same time. Endearing performances from the whole cast can't keep the story grounded or the finale from feeling rushed. COLIN MCNEIL

Horror/Thriller

No One Lives

Director. Ryuhei Kitamura

Stars. Luke Evans, Adelaide Clemens, Derek Magyar

For a movie that revels in berserk gore, No One Lives sure is dull. Overstylized and dimly lit, Ryuhei Kitamura (Midnight Meat Train) tries to evoke a twist on the redneck slasher thriller by having its protagonist be a table turning antagonist. It doesn't work. Neither does the dodgy acting and flat dialogue.

CHRIS ALEXANDER

Documentary

Me, The Bees and Cancer

Director. John Board and Hector Centeno

Produced under the auspices of the Royal Cinema's 1K Film Challenge — in which filmmakers had to create a feature-length movie for less than $1,000 — John Board and Hector Centeno's Me, the Bees and Cancer is a likeably lo-fi doc. Board, a well-known assistant director with decades' worth of credits in the Canadian film industry, co-directs and stars as himself: the film's subject is the 70-year-old filmmaker's battle with cancer. The title refers to the experimental "bee sting therapy" that Board has prescribed himself, and the film unfolds as a clear-eyed and even-handed assessment of the value of alternative medicine.

ADAM NAYMAN

Comedy/Drama

Frances Ha

Director. Noah Baumbach

Stars. Greta Gerwig, Mickey Sumner

The seventh film from Greenberg director Noah Baumbach isn't so much a traditional narrative as it is a character study of Frances (Greta Gerwig), an underemployed dancer struggling to find herself in New York City. It plays like a cleaned up black-and-white version of Girls; an emotionally rich and funny portrait of 20-something ennui. The supporting cast (including Girls star Adam Driver) is strong, but this is Gerwig's movie. Once again — after films like Lola Versus and Arthur — she hands in an authentic, affecting and purely wonderful performance. RICHARD CROUSE

In this wildly creative marathon of mayhem your minion must dodge, duck, and jump past mischievous rockets, fluffy unicorns, fart machines and banana launchers. It's despicable fun, hilariously recommended.

Susan Lucci maid to make 'em laugh and be devious

Devious Maids. Multi-faceted actress looking forward to being part of new show that follows the lives of five Hispanic house servants

For decades, audiences knew her as a dramatic — some may even say melodramatic — soap actress, but there is another side to Susan Lucci.

"She is so hysterically funny, and I think that is something really new and interesting because I don't think people have seen her be this funny and this free," says Ana Ortiz, who stars with Lucci on the new Lifetime series Devious Maids.

"I used to look at people on film doing comedy and my hat goes off to them," says Lucci. "'How do they do that with so many takes, so many bits and pieces?' I already had so much respect for them."

Premiering this Sunday, the series follows five Hispanic maids who work for some of the wealthiest and most powerful families in Beverly Hills. As the season is unveiled, the maids show they can be as devilish, scheming and witty as their employers.

Devious Maids is executive produced by Eva Longoria and Marc Cherry — the man who also created Desperate Housewives.

"Just the name Marc Cherry. 'Marc Cherry has a new show? Yes, I would like to be part of that.'" Then, when I read the script it was a page turner," says Lucci, who plays one of the high-society mavens. "There are hilarious aspects and then there are intriguing things: the twists, the turns, the surprises. He does them so well.

"All the characters," says Lucci, "are fully realized characters. There is not one cardboard, cartoon in the entire group."

"There is funny, heart, drama and sex," adds Ortiz, who played Hilda Suarez on Ugly Betty. It, like Devious Maids, was based on a successful Spanish-language TV show that aired in Latin and South America. "I have had good luck with these novellas-turned-American shows. For me it was a no-brainer.

There is, for lack of a better term, a real upstairs/downstairs quality that I think people are really tuning into right now," says Ortiz. "It's the two worlds colliding." METRO

Controversy

Criticism. While it hasn't officially aired yet, Devious Maids has already faced criticism for its portrayal of Hispanic women as servants, criticism that Eva Longoria, who executive produces the series with Marc Cherry, takes exception to.

Response. "You are telling me their stories aren't worth telling, that maids are not complex, that they don't have a life, that they don't have a story to tell? They do," Longoria says, who adds mothers who worked as maids have raised many successful Hispanic people in the U.S. "With the demographic of the United States changing rapidly we should represent our diverse country on television."

Soon Ontario will be the last province in Canada where dental assistants are not a regulated health profession. This means that dentists can hire people without formal education to do the work of dental assistants. Dental assistants take radiographs, are responsible for infection control and may perform other intra-oral duties.

The Ontario Dental Assistants Association (ODAA), the certifying body for Ontario dental assistants feels this is a matter of public safety. Dental patients have the right to know that everyone working in a dental office is educated and formally trained.

We believe that Ontario dental assistants will be regulated one day. Until then, we would encourage you to ask your dentist if they hire only ODAA certified dental assistants to work in the office. At least, that's one good reason to smile.

Armie Hammer got knifed during sex?

Well, here's a story you don't hear every day from a celebrity interview: Armie Hammer, the hunky actor from The Social Network (twice over) and the new Lone Ranger movie, once had a knife pulled on him during sex.

"One chick tried to stab me when we were having sex. I should so not be telling this story. She was like, 'True love leaves scars. You don't have any.' And then she tried to stab me with a butcher knife. Of course I promptly broke up with her — seven months later," he tells Elle magazine in a new interview.

Funny. I had no idea Armie Hammer and Amanda Bynes ever dated, did you?

Radcliffe: Doctor Who? Not Doctor Me!

With the search underway for a new Doctor Who, at least one British actor is scratching his own name off the list.

"I've done one iconic character, that might be enough," Daniel Radcliffe tells the Sun newspaper.

And speaking of iconic British characters, Radcliffe also insists he'll never be considered to take over playing James Bond due to his small stature, but that doesn't mean he's not interested in taking part in the franchise.

"I would make a much better villain than Bone," he says. "I am not nearly strapping enough to play Bond."

Katie Holmes

Holmes focused on Suri, not dating

A year after her split from Tom Cruise, Katie Holmes is struggling to adjust to life as a single mom — and has put her love life on hold, according to People magazine.

"She had the courage to leave and take control of her life. Things have been tough for her, but she's happy," a source tells the magazine.

"She's lying low on the romantic side of things. She doesn't need that right now. Her focus is on (her daughter) Suri. I don't think she's ready."

Johnny Depp

Depp wraps up his study of booze

Johnny Depp says he made the choice to stop drinking alcohol a year and a half ago, but he insists he is not an alcoholic.

"No, I don't have the physical need for the drug alcohol. It's more my medication, my self-medication over the years just to calm the circus," he says. "I just decided that I pretty much got everything I could get out of it.

I investigated wine and spirits thoroughly, and they certainly investigated me as well, and we found out that we got along beautifully, but maybe too well."

Heartburn Reflux

By Dr. Chakib Hammoud, M.H.,PhD.

The USDA now recommends to eat 50% alkaline food (vegetables, legumes, salads, fruit). Health professionals suggest 80% alkaline food. Unfortunately, North American people eat 90% acidic food (meat, pasta, rice, bread, pastries, sweets, junk food). If you cannot change your diet to USDA's 50% or closer to 80% alkaline food, consider to supplement with a natural health product that helps to increase your pH alkaline level close to a healthy #7. Ask for Bell Acidic Stomach/Alkaline Balance #39. It's inexpensive, has no side effects and may eliminate the need for anti-acid pills many people take. As a bonus, an alkaline balanced body prevents many illnesses. See guarantee printed on box. ■ Reflux gave me a sore throat and I could not sing in the church choir anymore. After taking Bell #39 I have no more reflux and rejoice in singing again. Helene Giroux, 65, Quebec, QC ■ Have family history of heartburn. For last 10 years I suffered a lot with acid reflux. I told all family members about #39 being all natural, giving quick relief and having no side effects. Michael Fasheh, 49, Port Ranch, CA ■ Very happy with acid reflux relief. Last 4 years had increasing reflux despite taking anti-acid products. I am also trying to eat more alkaline food. Whether you enjoy it between pound cake or cookies, ice cream is even better in a sandwich. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

We all scream — for Ice Cream Sandwiches

A summer buffet.
Tinker with the perfection that is this season's finest treat by sandwiching it between some delicious additions

When it comes to enjoying an ice cream sandwich buffet, encourage your guests to get a little crazy. Why sandwich just one variety of ice cream when you could combine two or more?

And assure them that creating totally over-the-top treats is not just appropriate, but expected. Try sandwiching chocolate ice cream between two whoopie pies with layers of peanut sauce and marshmallow spread, for example.

Shortcake Sandwich
Spread 2 pieces of thinly sliced and toasted pound cake with strawberry jam, then fill with vanilla or strawberry ice cream.

Black and Red
Sandwich raspberry sorbet between chocolate wafer cookies.

Creamsicle
Sandwich orange sherbet or gelato between vanilla sugar cookies. Add a smear of chocolate fudge sauce, if desired.

S'More
Spread marshmallow spread on graham crackers, fill with rocky road or chocolate ice cream.

Lemon Spice
Drizzle a touch of butterscotch or caramel on a soft molasses cookie, then top with lemon sorbet or sherbet, then a second molasses cookie.

The belle of Bordeaux

When you think of French wines, what place first comes to mind? I asked a cross section of wine lovers (OK, my drinking buddies) and they all came up with the same thing: Bordeaux.

Bordeaux is the original home of grape kings like Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot, along with some of the most gorgeous real estate in the wine world. This region is where the château hits the fan.

I recently had a chance to tour Château Mouton Rothschild, one of the classiest wine estates in France and the home of its famous red with the prestigious First Growth status.

That kind of wine comes with a price. A recent vintage of Mouton will set you back more than $1,000. But there's more to the winery than their superstar bottle. It also makes Mouton Cadet, a pair of wines (red and white) that have been shipped to Canada for decades. Though the region is red wine territory, its whites are true undiscovered gems. The 2011 Mouton Cadet Blanc ($12.99 to $15.99) is fresh and bright with a light citrus expression that works wonders with a seafood menu. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. Championship on repeat for the Heat

NBA Finals. LeBron scores 37 points in deciding game en route to series MVP award

LeBron James had 37 points and 12 rebounds and the Miami Heat repeated as champions with a 95-88 victory over the San Antonio Spurs in Game 7 of the NBA Finals on Thursday night.

Dwyane Wade added 23 points and 10 rebounds and Shane Battier scored 18 points on 6-for-8 shooting from three-point range for Miami. James, named the finals MVP, shot 5-for-10 on threes, all the while hounding Spurs star Tony Parker on defence to make the Heat the first back-to-back champs since the Lakers in 2009-10.

Game 7

Heat	Spurs

Tim Duncan had 24 points and 12 rebounds for the Spurs, who were trying to become the first road team to win a finals Game 7 since Washington in 1978. Kawhi Leonard added 19 points and 16 rebounds.

Mario Chalmers scored 14 for Miami.

Parker had 10 points on 3-for-12 shooting and four assists, and Manu Ginobili scored 18 points for the Spurs. San Antonio lost for the first time in five finals appearances.

Leonard's three-pointer made it 90-88, but Duncan missed a putback and James knocked down a 19-foot jumper with 27.9 seconds to go up by four points, sealing the victory as the fans chanted along to the White Stripes' Seven Nation Army, a trademark celebration at American Airlines Arena.

The Flyers are buying out the final two years of Briere's contract, a move that will shave $6.5 million off their salary cap. Briere will become an unrestricted free agent as part of Philadelphia's off-season shake-up of its high-priced roster that missed the playoffs last season.

Big expectations for big cities

They promise to be the biggest world junior hockey championships ever.

Hockey Canada announced Thursday that the 2015 and 2017 championships will be co-hosted by Canada's two largest cities — Toronto and Montreal.

"We're taking this to a whole new level," Hockey Canada president Bob Nicholson said.

News conferences were held a few hours apart in both cities for the tournaments that organizers expect to set records for attendance and revenue.

Both cities will host a preliminary round group at each event, with Toronto hosting the medal round in 2015 and Montreal hosting the medal round in 2017.

Cup competitors shift goals back to defence

NHL playoffs. Exchanging chances not on to-do list for Bruins or Blackhawks heading into Game 5

Jonathan Toews didn't think the Chicago Blackhawks would need six goals to win Game 4 of the Stanley Cup final. By the time Patrick Sharp scored with 8:41 left in the third period to make it 5-4, he figured it would be enough.

It wasn't, but the Blackhawks managed to tie the series when Brent Seabrook's overtime goal gave them a 6-5 win over Boston. Still, they know they must adjust on the defensive end going back to Chicago for Game 5 Saturday night.

"There's a give-and-take as far as the quality and quantity we give up. We always measure how we play is what we give up," coach Joel Quenneville said. "I just don't think we want to just exchange scoring chances ... That's not part of our game, and it's not part of the way we want to play."

That open style certainly suits the Blackhawks better than the Bruins, even as Claude Julien took exception to the notion that his team played "rough-and-tumble" hockey and not much else. Boston doesn't want to get into an end-to-end game either, considering the ways Chicago can turn up the speed and offence.

"I don't think any coach likes the back-and-forth, exchanging chances," Julien said. "Although it's exciting for the fans, you're looking for some zone time."

Eleven goals made for quite the departure from Games 2 and 3, when the teams combined for just five. It was just another twist in a series that Blackhawks forward Patrick Kane called "pretty bizarre."

Not so good for the coaches, goaltenders and defences involved. Game 4 was the first real rough night of the playoffs for Bruins goalie Tuukka Rask, even though most of the goals weren't on him, and Quenneville had to reaffirm his stance Thursday that Corey Crawford would remain in net for the Blackhawks moving forward.

Crawford's teammates assumed some of the pressure for the offensive explosion.

"I think as forwards we can maybe be a little more responsible and getting in shooting lanes the way they would against us," Toews said. "I think there's something to be said about blocking shots and maybe helping our goaltender out a little bit more." THE CANADIAN PRESS

NCAA

Lawsuit seeks share of revenues for student athletes

Former college basketball standout Ed O'Bannon and his lawyers sought on Thursday to dramatically expand his lawsuit challenging the NCAA's ban on compensating athletes in a move that could expose the organization and its member schools to billions of dollars in damages.

O'Bannon and his lawyers asked a federal court judge to turn their antitrust lawsuit into a class action, representing thousands of former and current college athletes. The lawsuit demands that the NCAA find a way to cut players in on the billions of dollars earned by college sports from live broadcasts, memorabilia sales, video games and in other areas.

U.S. District Court Judge Claudia Wilken didn't rule on either the merits of O'Bannon's case or his demands to turn the case into a class action. It could take weeks, even months, before Wilken rules.

Instead, she ordered O'Bannon's lawyers to revise the lawsuit to fix some legal technicalities, including explicating adding current players to the lawsuit. Lawyer Michael Hausfeld said he will file a new lawsuit that includes current players, but will seek to keep their names confidential.

NFL. Lawsuit claims Patriots TE shot man in face

New England Patriots tight end Aaron Hernandez, already connected to a homicide victim in Massachusetts, is being sued in South Florida by a man claiming Hernandez shot him in the face after they argued at a strip club.

The lawsuit filed late Wednesday by 30-year-old Alexander Bradley comes as police in New England investigate the death of 27-year-old semi-pro player Odin Lloyd. Lloyd's body was found in an industrial park near Hernandez's home in North Attleborough, Mass. Lloyd's family has said he had some connection to Hernandez, but would not elaborate.

In his federal lawsuit seeking at least $100,000 US in damages, Bradley claims he and Hernandez were with a group in February at Tootsie's club in Miami when the two got into an argument. Later, as they were driving to Palm Beach County, Bradley claims Hernandez shot him with a handgun, causing him to lose his right eye. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Blue Jays still looking up in AL East

MLB. They've rattled off 8-straight wins, now the immediate road ahead gives Toronto real chance to prove it's a playoff contender

Winners of eight straight and 12 of their last 15, the Toronto Blue Jays have done well these past two weeks, undoing some of the damage wrought by their sluggish start to the season.

But it's the next 10 days that could define their year.

Starting Friday, the Jays kick off a 10-game stretch against AL East rivals. After taking on the Baltimore Orioles at home this weekend, the Jays travel through Tampa and Boston on a crucial seven-game road trip.

Locked-in left-hander

"Everything's clicking right now for us."

The Blue Jays are just three back of tying the franchise record 11-game winning streak. TOM SZCZERBOWSKI/GETTY IMAGES

"It's an important part of the schedule, no question," said manager John Gibbons.

Not until the final two weeks of the season — when they play 15 consecutive games against divisional rivals — do the Jays embark on such a sustained stretch within the AL East.

But those games will be moot if the Jays don't start making up ground within their division now.

"Yeah it's important, but every game's important right now," said closer Casey Janssen. "I don't think there's a certain stretch right now that's make or break. Yeah, we've got to win in our division — it's the only way we're going to gain games on these teams — but it's still early to say these next 10 games are going to decide our season."

As cliché as it sounds, the Jays are still trying to focus on a game at a time, Janssen said.

"We can't look too far ahead, because the task is tough. But if you break it down and it's just one night it doesn't seem as extreme. It's just, 'Hey, let's win tonight and let's do it again tomorrow.'"

Ready for some football?

There are a number of storylines heading into the CFL regular season, which kicks off June 27. Here are five worth keeping an eye on:

THE CANADIAN PRESS
Photos by The Canadian Press and Torstar News Service

No Ticats in Steeltown

The Hamilton Tiger-Cats will play their home games in Guelph, Ont., as a new venue is being built where Ivor Wynne Stadium once stood. The Ticats missed the playoffs last year with a 6-12 record, costing head coach/GM George Cortez his job after just one season.

Hawkins era in Montreal

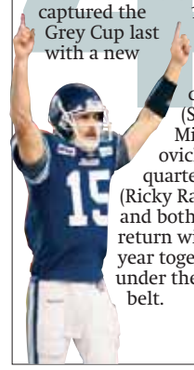
Dan Hawkins has a tough act to follow as the Montreal Alouettes head coach. Not only does he have no CFL coaching experience, he replaces Marc Trestman, who led the club to a 59-31 regular-season record and two Grey Cup wins over five seasons before being named head coach of the NFL's Chicago Bears.

Riders look to keep streak alive

Serving as Grey Cup host has proven quite beneficial the last two years. In 2011, the B.C. Lions beat Winnipeg at BC Place before Toronto dispatched Calgary last year at Rogers Centre. This year's game will be played at Mosaic Stadium in Regina, which puts the onus on the Saskatchewan Roughriders to keep the home streak alive.

Argos' quest to repeat

The Toronto Argonauts will attempt to win consecutive Grey Cup titles for the first time since 1996-97. Toronto captured the 100th Grey Cup last year with a new head coach (Scott Milanovich) and quarterback (Ricky Ray), and both return with a year together under their belt.



Much change in B.C.

B.C. Lions GM Wally Buono re-signed free-agent receiver Emmanuel Arceneaux as well as QB Travis Lulay, OLs Jovan Oliafoye and Ben Archibald and LB Solomon Elimimian. The most significant move involved Geroy Simon, who was traded to Saskatchewan after 12 seasons in Vancouver.

Messi to face questioning on tax fraud claims

Lionel Messi and his father were ordered by a Spanish court on Thursday to appear for questioning in September as part of an investigation into tax fraud allegations.

A court in the Mediterranean coastal town of Gava near Barcelona accepted a state prosecutor's complaint alleging Messi and father Jorge defrauded the Spanish tax office of 4 million euros ($5.3 million US).

The Barcelona and Argentina star and his father will appear before Judge Anju Deb Rani in Gava on Sept. 17. That will form part of an investigation to determine whether grounds exist to charge them with tax evasion.

If charged and found guilty, Messi and his father could face a fine amounting to 150 per cent of the concealed earnings and between two and six years in prison. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
It does not matter if you are qualified to do a certain job. What matters is that you give it a go. You may be surprised to find you are quite good at something you had convinced yourself you'd be bad at.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You may be baffled by some of the things that have gone on in recent weeks but now they are behind you, put them out of your mind.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
So you made an error of judgment. You are human like everyone else and make mistakes like everyone else. That you made that error means you at least had the guts to try something new.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You may not see eye-to-eye with someone but that does not mean you are destined to fall out. A lot depends on how willing you are to accept that what they do and say is just as valid as what you do and say.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You will change your opinion about something that only a few days ago you seemed so sure about. The problem is that nothing is static, not even your thoughts. Just accept it.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Something that a while back seemed next to impossible will soon look the easiest thing in the world. Remember: Nothing is set in stone. Nothing is made that cannot be undone and remade.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You have made one concession too many and now you must put your foot down and let others know the free ride is over. You may not want to be aggressive about it but you must make it clear you mean business.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Your confidence is high now that the Sun is moving in your favour again but don't take foolish risks. Socially, you will be in demand and an invitation of some kind could even lead to a new business opportunity.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
It would appear someone is trying to pressure you into doing something you don't really care for. No matter how strongly they come at you, don't give in.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You won't be in the least bit shy about telling people what they should be doing today — and if they're smart they will listen to you and act on your recommendations. You can see more clearly than they can.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Your attitude towards an issue of some kind will change today. It may even be the opposite of how you thought about it before. In the middle somewhere lies the truth.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
If you are in need of inspiration you will get it, most likely from your imagination. Allow your mind to wander wherever it will. Don't try to hold it back. SALLY BROMPTON
